VI) Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow: 5x1=5

It is sad, but true, that many people focus on negative things. On the other hand, bees are very optimistic. You'll never find a bee saying, "Oh, I'd like to get some nectar, but that flower has too many thorns!" Forget it - the bees look right past the thorns and go straight to the flower. Instead of focusing on the negative, they're always looking for that which is sweet. Being positive also helps bees stay persistent when looking for nectar. Sometimes they have to travel for miles to find a flower full of nectar. They also have to deal with people shooing them away from their gardens. But have you noticed that they always come right back? They're focused on their mission of gathering sweet nectar, not the obstacles that stand in their way. Like the bees, you should also be optimistic. Your attitude to others is like a witness. You will always go after that which is positive and be a sweet example to everyone around you.

Questions:

1. What is the mission of the bees?

A: _____

2. What do people focus on?

A: _____

3. What do help the bees to stay persistent?

A: _____

4. Find the word in the passage which means 'continuing'.

A: _____

5. Write the antonym of the word 'optimistic'

A: _____

VII. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow: 5 x 1 = 5

The architects of the India Republic hoped that, as secular ethos took roots, democratic institutions spread and a secular-scientific outlook consolidated itself, the Indian society would outgrow the evil of caste system. This did not happen. What has happened is that the India of our dreams began to undergo a radical re-definition. Our republican dreams are being revised. A political engineering to perpetuate caste domination has gained gradual ascendancy over the liberal-secular ideal of an egalitarian society. This has happened by default. Today there is widespread cynicism on whether or not the war against caste is winnable. Experiences spread over five decades of nation-building leave us in no doubt that the evil of caste system will not wither away, unless the war against it is joined in a tactical and practical way. Concrete measures have to be adopted and implemented; foremost among them being inter-dining and inter-marrying.

Gary Chapman in his book, Love as a Way of Life uses the vivid metaphor for words as being either 'bullets or seeds'. If we use our words as bullets with a feeling of superiority and condemnation, we are not going to be able to restore a relationship to love. If we use our words as seeds with a feeling of supportiveness and sincere good will, we can rebuild a relationship in positive and life-affirming ways.

When we need to talk candidly about something difficult with another person, we must focus on the conversation with keen attention and purpose. During the conversation, we must listen patiently, speak tactfully, and tell the truth as we understand it. We must align our words, voice inflection and tone, eye expression, body language, and actions with our inner awareness in an honest exchange.

1. What is the title of the book written by Gary Chapman?
2. How does the writer describe words?
3. How can we rebuild a relationship in positive and life - affirming ways?
